The Star of Bethlehem.

Shining still, undimmed by ages, Beacon of a pilgrim throng, Voicing faith in adoration, Blossoming from speech to song.

Dancing moonbeams shod with silver, Morning's sun-rayed diadem, Pale beside the light transcendent Of the Star of Bethlehem.

FLORENCE TERRETT, Nashville, Tenn., Dec. 22.

CHRISTMAS.

Before the midnight stroke of the City Hall clock shall have sounded the preparations for the celebration of Christmas will have been about completed. Most of the little ones will by that time be enjoying visions of tomorrow. May the realization of their dreams be equal to their anticipations. Christmas is a universal day of joy and, unlike national holidays, appeals to all of every tongue and clime. It is celebrated in one way or another wherever the Christian faith has been planted. Our sturdy ancestors gathered around the blazing yule log and discussed the board's head, their chief Christmas dish. In our day the board's head has given place to more dainty edibles, and instead of the yule log modern heating appliances are in evidence, while gas jets and in many instances electricity enliven Christmas scenes. In certain parts of this country many years ago there was a disposition to ignore the greatest of all days of the calendar. Their action was the outcome of the chronic broils in the mother country where misguided often came to blows in controversies over the manner in which the Creator should be worshipped. In the South, however, the spirit of the early English settlers, who venerated Christmas, has never been eradicated; hence attempts to supersede it by Thanksgiving or New Year's Day have proved failures. In the olden times the day was celebrated more elaborately than now. In fact it was by no means contracted to one day, but the festivities generally lasted six or seven days. Christmas week was the holiday season, during which time the baronial mansion, farm house and cottage were scenes of happy gatherings. But times have changed. People are not living now as they did in the first half of the nineteenth century and previous to that time. There is hurry and bustle everywhere and but few can spare a week from their respective callings. The occasion is consequently limited to but one day for the great majority. May it prove to all a feast of good things for soul and body, and especially to those in our own city, where Christmas is the most cherished of all days in the year.

Christmas Eve.

The streets have been thronged with people today, among whom were many from the adjoining country who had come here to make holiday purchases. Should the weather remain fair the animation will be continued until a late hour tonight. There was joy on most countenances. It was especially marked on those of the younger generation. The tranquility which prevailed on the streets was often commented on. There were not, as on previous Christmas eves, an incessant dodging of ear-splitting explosives in the shape of toy cannons, dangerous firecrackers and other modern tortures, nor were horns blown into people's ears at nearly every step. These pacific conditions were greatly enjoyed, especially by people from the country and others having teams to control. The serenity of the present holiday season will never be forgotten by those who believe in the old observation: "True happiness is of a quiet nature, an enemy to pomp and noise." The display of toys was about as large as those usually seen in this city during Christmas times.

Christmas Eve Market.

The market was kept open during the day in order to afford all an opportunity to procure the necessities and luxuries for Christmas. The court was filled with stacks of young cedar trees and many of the benches were full of evergreens, holly, mistletoe and other growth used in holiday decorations. The supply of poultry was by no means large and prices were high. The better grades of turkeys brought 20 cents a pound. There was an abundance of rabbits and a few possums were on hand. The butchers had slaughtered some "top" cattle for their Christmas displays, and the fish dealers had on exhibition a large variety and better specimens of the funny tribe.

The Cameron Run Hounds.

Hounds met yesterday at the kennels at two p. m., and after jogging about two miles, were cast in a field opposite the Cuyler farm. The scent being breast high, the hounds ran at a great pace, crossing the farms of Cleveland, Green and Cockrell to the first check at Strawberry Hill; then to the north, crossing the Little River turnpike to Cameron Run and back through the farms of Cat, Patterson, and others to the finish at Vaucuse. At the third fence, a good stop and rail. Mr. Clark's mount slipped into it and fell; mounting quickly, however, he led the field over the next fence. At a big washed-out stream none save Mr. Clark and the master got over, and had the hounds to themselves to the second check, the first whips getting a bad spill at the same stream. Several big outstanding fences were negotiated and the run was ideal, barring the heavy going, owing to which a slim field turned out. Those finishing with the hounds were Mrs. Courtland Smith, on Barister; Mr. F. Ambrose Clark, of Goshen Hunt, New York, on Quinquity; the master, Mr. Courtland H. Smith, on Chappie Lee, and the whips Epps on The Lamb, and Goings on St. Vincent. The next meet will be Thursday, Christmas day, at East Falls Church at eleven a. m.

Alexandria Lodge of Elks has been engaged today in lightening many households which otherwise might have been cheerless by distributing baskets of seasonable edibles. They will give out about one hundred baskets.

Personal.

Gen. Fitzhugh Lee was in Frederickburg yesterday to see his brother, Robert C. Lee, who is very sick at the Mary Washington Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Phil Leterman with their daughter, Miss Camille, and their little son are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Henry Strauss. Miss Hortense Leterman is spending the holiday season with friends in Baltimore.

Miss Mai R. Greenwell, Miss Florence Sullivan, and Miss Lottie Greenwell will sing at St. Mary's Church at the five o'clock service to-morrow morning.

Cadet Chas. M. Nash is spending the holiday with his mother in this city.

Mrs. Janie Atkinson and family have gone to South Carolina for the winter.

Mrs. Wm. H. Bacon, is spending Christmas in Branchville, S. C.

Mrs. James H. Corbitt left on Monday for Alexandria to spend the Christmas holidays. (Norfolk Landmark.)

Misses Kroes Ficklin and Oregon Bruce, teachers in Lee School, having completed the professional course of study, embracing general history, civics, English language and literature, physical geography, algebra, pedagogy and school law, have been licensed to teach in the public schools of Virginia without further examination.

Mr. Lee Finks, who has for some time been living in Tennessee, is on a visit to his old home.

The condition of Mr. Augustine Jacqueline Smith, father of Dr. W. M. Smith, who was stricken with paralysis few days ago, has improved. For many years Mr. Smith was the confidential adviser of the late millionaire merchant, Charles B. Ross, and is a former president of the Maryland Agricultural College. His grandfather, Gen. John Smith, represented this district in Congress for 18 years.

The condition of Corporal Appleby, whose skull was fractured in the accident on the electric railway Sunday afternoon, is improving. He is still at the Alexandria Hospital.

Mrs. C. F. M. Johnson and her daughter, Miss Kate, will spend the winter in Baltimore.

Selling Ice House Eggs.

An individual with a decidedly German accent made his appearance in this city yesterday with a large supply of eggs. They had every appearance of having been recently laid, being bright and almost transparent. He was selling them a few cents under the prevailing price and one gentleman purchased fifteen dozen and others smaller quantities. The discovery was subsequently made that they were ice-house eggs which had evidently been purchased from commission merchants and others and washed and shined up to pass as fresh eggs. Lieutenant Smith, one of the Teuton's victims, brought the vendor to the station house. He at first said he lived near Manassas and that his own hens had laid the eggs. Later he acknowledged he purchased them from others and when brought before the Mayor he said he was from Accokeek, Md., where he purchased the eggs. The Mayor summed up the case by finding him $5 for conducting business without a license and ordered him to refund the money he obtained from the complainants and take possession of his goods.

River Notes.

The winter schedule of the Weems Line between this city and Baltimore went into effect yesterday, and the tri-weekly trips of the steamer will be abandoned until next spring. But one trip will be made each week. The steamer Calvert, which left here yesterday afternoon for Baltimore, will be withdrawn from the route. Under the new schedule the steamer Potomac will leave here every Thursday afternoon, and will leave Baltimore for this city Tuesday afternoon. All the regular landings will be made on this trip.

The little steamer G. J. Seufferle, which arrived here Sunday from Baltimore, will go into winter quarters here. It is understood the steamer will be put in order for charter for outings on the river during the summer months.

The schooner Ada Ballenger ran aground yesterday evening opposite Nottley Hall. She was pulled off by the tugboat Major Brewerton.

The steam yacht Florida, of Washington, has gone to Florida with an excursion party on board.

Work on Long Bridge.

The work on the stone piers for the new Long bridge is progressing slowly. Two of the piers on the south side of the draw remain to be built, as well as the heavy stone abutment for the Virginia approach to the bridge. The contractors have a large force of men at work on the foundation for the Virginia abutment, and in a short time it will be showing above the ground. Considerable trouble has been had in building the foundations for this abutment, owing to the marshy condition of the ground, but it is understood the trouble has been overcome. Judging from the past rate of progress, it will be several months before the actual construction of the bridge proper will begin, but the present part of the work is the slowest and most difficult. After the piers are completed the iron work on the bridge can be moved along at good speed.

Sale of the Cotton Factory.

The Mount Vernon Cotton Factory was sold today by Mr. Samuel H. Lunt, auctioneer, to Messrs. J. & H. Aitchison, for $14,450. The sale was made under a decree of the Corporation Court in the suit of Mr. Charles Nitze et al., agents, against Henry C. Chipman et al., Messrs. John M. Johnson and James R. Caton being the commissioners. The building fronts on Washington street 252 feet 5 inches and extends on Pendleton street 123 feet 5 inches. The Messrs. Aitchison say they have not yet fully formed their plans for utilizing the building.

Projected Eleven Story Hotel.

The promoters of the project to erect a modern eleven-story hotel building on the site of the present Hotel Lawrence, just west of the National Theater on E street between 13th and 14th street, Washington, appeared before the Commissioners of the District of Columbia yesterday morning to present their argument on the subject of the maximum height to be allowed for the structure. Messrs. Albert Carry and Robert Porter propose to erect the hotel. The commissioners have the matter under consideration.

County Court.

[Judge J. M. Love presiding.] Moore vs. Early; unlawful detainer; jury and verdict for plaintiff. Court adjourned till Friday.

Church Services.

Tomorrow, Christmas Day, the anniversary of the birth of the Saviour of Mankind, will be appropriately observed in many of the churches of this city. Special musical programmes have been arranged which have heretofore been published in the Gazette. Services will be held as follows:

St. Mary's Church at 5 a. m.
Christ Church at 11 a. m.
St. Paul's Church at 11 a. m.
Grace Church at 7 and 11 a. m.
Immanuel Lutheran at 11 a. m.
Trinity M. E. Church at 6 a. m.
M. E. Church South 6 a. m.
M. P. Church at 6 a. m.

The following is the musical programme for St. Paul's Church: Hymn 49, Adagio; Fideles; Venite in E flat, Belcher; Gloria Patri, Pozanski; Te Deum in E flat, Buck; Jubilate in E flat, Corbin; Introit Hymn, No. 61, "Hark What Mean Those Holy Voices"; Stair; Kyrie, Elvey; Gloria Tibi, Monk; Hymn No. 53, Avis on; Offertory, Anthem, "There Were Shepherds"; Poster; Offertory Ascription, "Praise God from Whom All Blessings Flow"; Sanctus, Stainer; Communion Hymn, No. 231; Gloria in Excelsis, Old Chant. Choir: Soprano, Miss Margaret Veitch, Mrs. Blanche Berkeley, Miss Alice Chinn and Miss Lucy Brockie; Alto, Misses Sara Rathbone and Janet Paveett; Tenors, Messrs. S. Frank Field, Ben Wheatley and Kenneth Ogden; Basses, Messrs. George H. Evans and Harris Franklin. Organist and Director, Mr. Sherman B. Fowler.

Irregularity of the Trains.

The irregularity of trains, both steam and electric, arriving in and departing from this city during the past few days has occasioned considerable inconvenience and annoyance. The steam trains have been late every day this week, while the run-offs on the electric road have at times made the arrival and departure of trains uncertain. The mail due here early this morning was several hours late.

Forfeited His Collateral.

One night last September, after an entertainment in the colored Old Fellows' hall, Joseph Pollard, colored, seriously cut George Jefferson, also colored, of the county, on north Fayette street. Pollard dodged the police until yesterday when he was picked up. He left $10 for his appearance this morning and failing to answer when his name was called forfeited his collateral.

Remains Shipped.

The remains of Private Woliver, who was killed in the accident on the electric railway Sunday afternoon, were today shipped to Jonesville, Lee county, by Mr. Wm. Demaine, undertaker. Religious services were held at the latter's establishment previous to the shipment. They were conducted by the chaplain from Fort Hunt.
